Application of this policy to School Governors

Whilst some aspects of this Policy are clearly more targeted at school staff, many have equal application to governors for example, the Policy provides guidance for all on what is considered to be inappropriate use of social media/internet sites. All governors and staff should ensure that they comply with the spirit of the Policy.

Though governors would not be subject to the same disciplinary process as staff, there are still forms of redress available where a governor behaves in an inappropriate manner. The appropriate procedures would be followed in such cases.

Purpose

The primary purpose of the Social Media Policy is to clarify how staff should conduct themselves when using all forms of social networking websites and blogs, whether conducted through the school's media, personal media and, in work time or in one's own time.

Staff wanting to create a work-related social media site, such as Twitter, must discuss this with and obtain the relevant approval from, the Headteacher. Advice and guidance should then be sought to ensure all protocols are followed.

If followed, it will guide staff on how to minimise the risk they may place themselves and pupils in, when they choose to write about their work or matters relating to the school and their personal lives. This in turn will minimise situations where safeguarding concerns could arise, staff integrity or professional standing could be undermined, or the school brought into disrepute and professional relationships with colleagues and pupils compromised.

Additionally, adhering to the policy reduces the risk of staff inadvertently contravening sections of the Data Protection Act or falling foul of any breaches of confidentiality, privacy, libel, defamation, harassment or copyright laws.

This policy is not intended to prevent staff from using social media sites, but to make them aware of the risks they could face, when sharing information about their professional and/or personal life. Staff should be encouraged to report any concerns that they have regarding content placed by staff on social media sites to the Headteacher and /or Line Manager.

Social Media Definition

Social media can be defined as websites and applications that enable users to create and share content or to participate in social networking, resulting in a number of different activities.

These activities can include, but are not limited to:

- Maintaining a profile page on social / business networking sites such as Facebook, Twitter or LinkedIn
- Writing or commenting on a blog, whether it is your own or the blog of another person / informational site
- Taking part in discussions on web forums or message boards
- Leaving product or service reviews on business websites or customer review websites
- Taking part in online polls
- Uploading multimedia on networking sites such as Instagram and Tumblr

- Liking, re-tweeting and commenting on posts of your own, another person or other social media account. (see employee responsibility for additional information)

Use of Social Media

As with all personal internet use, employees using social media sites must observe the specific requirements of the school's E-Safety Policy.

Misuse of social media websites can, in certain circumstances, constitute a criminal offence or otherwise give rise to legal liability against staff or school. It may also cause embarrassment to the school and other parties connected to the School or bring such parties into disrepute.

Any such action would likely be addressed under the Disciplinary Policy.

Where evidence of misuse is found, a more detailed investigation in accordance with the Disciplinary Policy may be necessary, involving the examination and disclosure of monitoring records to those nominated to undertake the investigation and any witnesses or managers involved in the investigation. If necessary such information may be handed to the police.

If you become aware of any use of social media by other members of staff in breach of this policy then the matter should be reported to the Headteacher.

Employee Responsibility

- Staff are responsible for the publishing of photographs of children on the school website, Twitter feed and newsletters having checked parental permissions. Only those pupils with signed parental permission may have their photos/image published.
- Employees are personally responsible for the content they publish on social media sites, including likes/re-tweets etc. Employees should assume that everything that is written is permanent and can be viewed by anyone at any time.
- Employees should assume that everything can be traced back to them personally as well as to their colleagues, the school and parents.
- To avoid any conflict of interest, employees should ensure that personal social networking sites are set at private and pupils are never listed as approved contacts. An exception to this may be if the child is the employee's own child, or relative.
- To avoid conflict of interest staff must be aware that other staff may in their 'groups' may not wish to have their comments forwarded in any form to other parties such as parents.
- Information must not be posted that would disclose the identity of pupils.
- Employees must ensure content or links to other content does not interfere with their work commitments

This list is not exhaustive.

Disciplinary Action

Staff should be aware that the use of social media sites in a manner contrary to this policy, including if others implicate you in a breach of any of the terms listed above may result in disciplinary action and in serious cases may be treated as gross misconduct, which itself could lead to dismissal.

Any instances of "cyber bullying" will initially be addressed through school procedures and may result in disciplinary action.

Social Media Security

Staff should be mindful when placing information on social media sites that this information is visible to a large audience and could identify where they work and with whom, thereby increasing the opportunity for false allegations and threats. In addition it may be possible through social media sites for children or vulnerable adults to be identified, which could have implications for their security.

Furthermore there is the scope for causing offence or unintentionally causing embarrassment, for example if pupils find photographs of their teacher which may cause embarrassment and/or damage to their professional reputation and that of the school. In addition, it may be possible for other social media site users to identify where employees live, which could have implications for individual security.

Therefore, first and foremost consideration should be given to the information posted on social media sites and staff are advised to use appropriately the security settings on such sites in order to assist in limiting the concerns above.

Monitoring the use of Social Media Websites

Employees should be aware that any use of social media websites (whether or not accessed for work purposes) may be monitored and, where breaches of this policy are found, action may be taken under the Disciplinary Policy.

The school considers that valid reasons for checking staff's internet usage include suspicions that the staff has:

- been using social media websites when he/she should be working; or
- acted in a way that is in breach of the rules set out in this policy.

Employee Groups/Networks

Staff groups can be created on social media sites such as Facebook. Creators of these groups are responsible for monitoring the content of the site and ensuring that it is appropriate and not in breach of any of the terms in this policy.
